What makes Tasmania unique

- The purest air scientifically measured on the planet
- Fertile farmland, mild climate and clean, abundant waters delivering premium farmed goods, seafood, whiskies and wines
- Pristine wilderness, with nearly half of the island's land mass protected in national parks and reserves
- One of the most far-south cruise destinations in the world
- The capital city of Hobart, one of five gateway ports to Antarctica
- Rich in natural and built heritage, history, culture, art and produce
- A leading destination for climate-conscious travel, and one of only a handful of locations globally to have reached net-zero status
- A remarkable island roughly the size of the Republic of Ireland
- Authentic locals

Best time to cruise Tasmania

OCTOBER TO APRIL

Tasmania's four distinct seasons deliver unique travel experiences year-round. Average temperatures in summer, from December to March, are 17–23°C (63–73°F). Average winter temperatures, from June to August, are 3–11°C (37–52°F).

Celebrating everything from penny farthings to pinot noir, spinnakers to sporrans and tulips to nude swimming – Tasmania's festival and event calendar is brimming with a distinctively Tasmanian sense of fun.

HOBART AND SOUTH

From wildlife to city life, a tour of Tasmania's south on the Southern Edge road trip spans the compact capital of Hobart, historic convict sites, diverse Bruny Island, the orchards and farm gates of the Huon Valley, and vast tracts of World Heritage wilderness.

Hobart

Architecture that blends heritage with contemporary cool, set between Kunanyi / Mount Wellington (1271m) and the broad River Derwent. Look forward to a busy festival calendar and simmering arts and foodie scenes.

Turrakana / Tasman Peninsula

This craggy peninsula plays host to the haunting Port Arthur Historic Site, 300m-high sea cliffs and the epic Three Capes Track. Access is via Teralina / Eaglehawk Neck, a 30m-wide isthmus once guarded by dogs to deter convict escapees.

Bruny Island

Catch the ferry across the D'Entrecasteaux Channel to Bruny Island, known for its coastal walks, bird and marine life, and outstanding produce – particularly oysters, artisanal cheese, craft beer and smallgoods.

Huon Valley

Pass apple orchards, vineyards, waterways and riverside towns until you reach tall forests and peaks of the Tasmanian Wilderness World Heritage Area. At the end of the road is Cockle Creek – the trailhead for the 85km South Coast Track, and as far south as you can go in Australia without a boat.

Derwent Valley and Mount Field

Upstream from Hobart, the River Derwent narrows, passing vineyards, hopfields and the antique-filled town of New Norfolk. Beyond the valley is snowy Mt Field National Park and Lake St Clair (Australia's deepest lake), at the southern end of Cradle Mountain-Lake St Clair National Park.

Richmond

Explore the town's Georgian streetscape, cross Australia's oldest bridge, check out the Wine Wall and taste the cool-climate wines of the Coal River Valley.

Southern Midlands

Follow the Heritage Highway through rolling farmland to discover historic sandstone towns like Oatlands, Bothwell and Kempton. Sculptural silhouettes of convicts and bushrangers along the highway recall the region's colonial past.

LAUNCESTON AND NORTH

Tasmania's major northern hub is celebrated for its heritage convict-built estates, rich farmland and cool-climate vineyards, producing superb food and wine with authentic paddock-to-plate experiences. Out in Bass Strait is Flinders Island, with its craggy peaks and emerging foodie scene.

Launceston

Just an hour's flight from Melbourne and 90 minutes from Sydney, Tasmania's northern hub is a UNESCO creative 'City of Gastronomy' – one of only 36 such cities worldwide, acknowledging the region's unique foodie culture. 'Launnie' also has some of Australia's best-preserved Georgian and Victorian streetscapes, and the Cataract Gorge, a slice of downtown wilderness.

Tamar Valley

From Launceston, follow the Tamar Valley Wine Trail, east and west of the Tamar River to visit the region's many cellar doors, bottling-up premium cool-climate pinot noir and sparkling wines. Beyond the vineyards are forested hills and farms, lavender fields and orchards.

Northern Midlands

Explore the picture-perfect villages of Longford and Evandale, home to heritage pubs, penny-farthing races and the UNESCO convict-built estates of Brickendon and Woolmers. Continue south for more history in Perth, Campbell Town and Ross along the Heritage Highway.

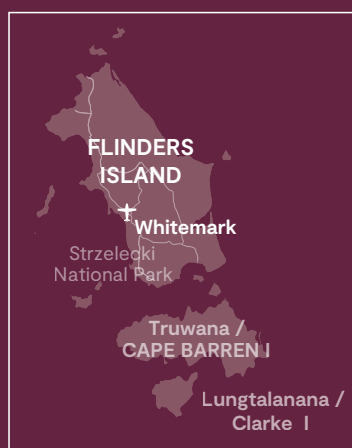

Meander Valley

With a skyline dominated by the Great Western Tiers, the Meander Valley offers historic towns, underground adventures at Mole Creek Caves and free ranging wildlife at Trowunna Wildlife Park. Fertile farmlands provide treats in abundance from cheese and chocolate to raspberries, wasabi and honey amongst country houses and magnificent open gardens.

Flinders Island

Flinders is the largest of the 52 islands in the Furneaux Group, adrift in Bass Strait off Tasmania's north-east coast. With a population of 1,000 people, rugged scenery and a growing reputation for distinctive paddock-to-plate produce experiences – including crayfish, abalone, scallops and quality lamb and beef – Flinders offers a true island-off-an-island experience.

EAST COAST

White-sand beaches and photogenic coastline:
Tasmania's east coast has the classic features of the best beach holidays – plus wombats and wallabies, seafood shacks and boutique wineries, strung between sandy holiday towns and epic national parks. See it all along the Great Eastern Drive.

Freycinet National Park

Freycinet is home to the craggy pink granite peaks of the Hazards, secluded bays, wallabies, native birds and sandy Wineglass Bay, Tasmania's most photographed location. The holiday hub of Coles Bay can be explored by boat, sea kayak or on foot.

Maria Island National Park

Just a 30-minute ferry ride from Triabunna, this wildlife haven stars wombats, wallabies, echidnas and 11 of the state's 12 endemic bird species, including the endangered forty-spotted pardalote. Maria Island is part of the traditional territory of the Paredarmerme / Oyster Bay Nation. Since British settlement, the island also served as a whaling post and a penal settlement. It has been a national park since 1972. Explore peaks and painted cliffs by mountain bike or on foot.

Swansea

This sleepy seaside village has some of the best views of any settlement on the east coast. Swansea offers one sweeping view after another. Expect long beaches and the pink granite peaks of the Hazards range across Great Oyster Bay. For food lovers, Swansea delivers a harvest from land and sea – a plate of freshly shucked oysters from the bay pairs well with wine from nearby Milton Vineyard. South of Swansea is Kate's Berry Farm, with fresh berries, artisanal chocolates, ice-cream and berry wine. Take time to forage and fill your picnic basket at farm gates around the town offering fresh fruit, walnuts, olives and more.

WEST AND NORTH WEST

Tasmania's north-west coast is known for its World Heritage-listed wilderness, mining heritage and outstanding produce, with plenty of paddock-to-plate stories to hear along the Tasting Trail Tasmania.

Burnie

Get a feel for the city's unique character by exploring the impressive concentration of Art Deco architecture on its streets, and the redeveloped Burnie Arts Centre. Stroll the Emu Bay beachfront and visit the Little Penguin Observation Centre. Make your way to Burnie Park, the location of the city's oldest building, the Burnie Inn.

Takayna / Tarkine

The world's second-largest tract of rare cool-temperate rainforest survives in this precious north-west wilderness. The Tarkine Drive takes you into the wilds from Smithton; or base yourself in tiny Corinna on the Pieman River for walks, cruises and kayak trips.

Cradle Mountain

Meet the local wildlife on superb day walks in Cradle Mountain-Lake St Clair National Park – part of the vast UNESCO Tasmanian Wilderness World Heritage Area. Or propel yourself along the 65km Overland Track, either DIY camping or on a pack-free guided walk sleeping in private huts.

Stanley

Wandering the streets and boutiques of this charming town lined with well-preserved cottages is like stepping back in time. The Nut, Stanley's towering landmark is a sheer-sided, flat-topped volcanic plug that towers 143m over the historic fishing town of Stanley on the north-west coast. Limber up for the steep climb or take the easy way up on the chairlift.

King Island

Some 80km off Tasmania's north-west coast, King Island offers rugged coastline, famously good produce and seafood, a rich seafaring history and some of the finest golf experiences in the world: Cape Wickham on the rugged north coast, and Ocean Dunes on the west coast. Tee off at greens on the edge of the sea, with passing whales and seals for company.
